

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fuel cell system and a method of operating same. The fuel cell system comprises a fuel cell for driving a load, a first process delivery device for supplying a first process fluid to the fuel cell, and a controller for controlling an operation rate of the first process fluid delivery device based on an 5 overriding signal received from a signal source external to the controller and the fuel cell.